

Faber Software

Artifex sales and maintenance program

Turin, April 24th 2003

The company

Faber Software is a brand new Italian company located in Turin, Italy. It inherits and continues Artis S.r.l.'s tradition in the fields of modeling software, simulation, and emulation of complex systems. It is especially, but not exclusively, geared toward the industrial, logistics, defense, and public health markets. Faber Software is comprised of people who worked for Artis S.r.l., and who have over ten years of experience in software development, modeling, simulation, support, and sales.

Mission

Faber Software's mission is the development of a new software product that incorporates the basic Artifex features and that may be extended and enriched with all the functions necessary to satisfy today and tomorrow's needs of customers operating in the industrial, logistics, defense and public health markets. The new product will be compatible with the latest Artifex version.

Artifex sales and maintenance agreement

Starting January 2003, upon an agreement signed with Rsoft Design Group Inc. (www.rsoftdesign.com), which has acquired intellectual property of the Artis S.r.l.'s products, Faber Software will handle license sales, customer support, and Artifex maintenance exclusively in the following markets: industrial automation, defense, logistics, CASE.

For the above mentioned markets, new licenses and maintenance programs for Artifex will be supplied directly by Faber Software on behalf of Rsoft Design Group Inc.

Faber Software guarantees support both for the already installed licenses and for the new licenses that will be produced on behalf of Rsoft Design Group Inc., and supplies all the knowledge necessary to maintain the existing software.

Artifex trademark is property of Rsoft Design Group Inc.
